

Managed Security

"After a lightning strike at our Police Department, Apex was asked to come in and do an assessment of the project and prepare recommendations as to the best approach to take. Their response was quick and their report was complete; detailing their recommendations and expected time line.

I would recommend their services without reservation."

In the networked business environment, security has become more critical—and also more complex. Today, network security requires constant monitoring and management of both internal and external network operations. You can no longer rely only on standard off-the-shelf anti-virus programs. No matter what size your business is, Apex is able to create a comprehensive security offering that meets the needs of your company. We are able to manage some or all of your network security, giving you access to sophisticated technologies, dedicated manpower, and 24-hour monitoring, as well as routine maintenance and management of disaster operations. Finding the right security solution for your organization begins with establishing your priorities and becoming informed about alternatives.
